speak under the five minute rule. The signers of the declaration of independence in this city, 106 years ago, were the "forefathers" of Irishmen. No less were the "forefathers" of Irishmen. No less than ten of them were Irishmen or the sons of Irishmen. While Irishmen owed much to America, America owed much to Ireland. The gallant Montgomery, who fell on the heights of Abraham; Com. Barry, Gen. Jackson, and perhaps half the whole army were Irishmen. Irishmen would pay their debt to Ireland without violating their duty to America, but had a right to say that the spirit of our institutions breathed liberty everywhere. They asked for Ireland what Henry Gruttan asked—to breathe the air of Oberty. The Irishman may be in rags, he ilberty. The trishman may be in rags, he shall not be in irons. It is time for union, the unification of every Irish society perhaps in the whole world. The genius of the Irish people could be trusted to dictate its policy.

The committee on organization of the National Irish League went into session at 10 o'clock and elected Mr. Michael Boland, of Kentucky, chairman. After a protracted debate, in which the various members of the committee interchanged views at great length, a subcommittee was appointed to draft a constitution or plan to be submitted to the full committee at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. The subcommittee consisted of Col. Michael Boland, of Kentucky, James Revnelds, of Connecticut: tucky; James Raynolds, of Connecticut; John O'Mahoney, of Tennessee; J. C. Donnelly, of Michigan; and C. J. Smith, of Nebraska. The fact that Col, Boland, a member of the land league committee of seven, is chairman of this comcommittee of seven, is chairman of this com-mittee is significant, indicating the preva-lence of a land league policy in the national reorganization. The most im-portant question before this committee to-night was the second resolution of a printed programme, which they still hold under con-sideration, to the effect that free trade for Ireland is above all things to be demanded and desired.

An Opposition Gas Company Files Articles of Incorporation.

They Ask Permission to Lay Mains Only in the Principal Streets,

Promising to Tunnel for All the Smaller Pipes and Connections.

An Argument That May Have Some Influence on the Monopoly.

Articles of incorporation of the United Illuminating and Fuel Gas company, of this city, were filed yesterday. The articles set forth that the company is formed for the purpose of acquiring, by purchase, lease, or otherwise, real estate in this city, and the crection thereon of suitable buildings to-gether with machinery, apparatus, and appli-ances necessary for the manufacture of illu-minating and fuel gas from coal, oil, or other materials to be used for heating or lighting in this city and Georgetown; to acquire by purchase, lease, or otherwise all patents, rights and improvements for the manufacture and distribution and use of said gas; to open the streets of the city under such restrictions and regulations as the commissioners may prescribe, and to lay pipes mains, &c. The existence of the company is visced at twenty existence of the company is placed at twenty years, and the capital stock is fixed at $1,000,000, divided into 100 shares. The trustees named are Albert W. Fletcher, of Philadelphia; Henry E. Loane, of Baltimore, and William Dicksons, Chayles H. Parsons, and John N. Oliver, of this city.

The above statement embraces the salient points of the formal declarations found in the points of the format occasivations sound in the articles. In plain words, it is an opposition gas company, and thousands of consumers will lift up their voices and pray that it may come to something and be the means of relieving them from the oppression of the frog blooded monopoly that has been fastened upon the community for so long. The outside members of the company are said to be gen-tlemen of large means, who have been for years engaged in the philanthropic work of rescuting cities similarly situated from oppres-sion such as Washington is greaning under. They have gone about doing good in twenty one They have gone about doing good in twenty one cities in just the way they propose doing here, knocking the props from under grinding gus monopolies, compelling the distribution of cheap gas. They seem to have fared well too, and according to all accounts they have accumulated a large amount of this world's goods. This is doubtless as it should be. The people do not want philanthropists to impoverish themselves warring against monopolies to free the necks of men from a burdensome yoke. What the people want is cheap gas that will burn, and make a light distinguishable after dark at something more distinguishable after dark at something more than ten paces distant, and they do not care how they get it, or who gives it to them. Gen-tlemen who will do these things will rank as public benefactors.

It is understood that the incorporators of the United Illuminating and Fuel company believe that the district commissioners have authority under the law to grant them the right to dig up the streets and set up in busi-ness without waiting for a special act of congress. All they want, they say, is the priv-ilege of putting down a thirty or forty inch supply main along one of the principal streets. They will tunnel under the sidewalks of side streets and put in the smaller pipes that way, so as to avoid tearing up the streets except when they come to crossings. They do not expect to begin active digging operations for four or five months, and their representatives say they will deposit $250,000 with the commissioners as a guarantee that they will not sell out to the old company or restrict themselves to consolidate or he was they will not sell out to the old company or permit themselves to consolidate or be swallowed up. The commissioners are to give them a hearing some day next week and go over the whole matter with them. If that quarter of a million materislizes, it may be taken for granted that the new company means business. It will take several months to brush away the Injunctions and other obstruction measures the old company will adopt when the first pick is stuck into the ground, and in the meanwhile everything can be gotten in readiness for a fall campaign.

A New Theological Departure,

In New York city there has recently been established a new Theistic church. It would seem to bear about the same relation to the orthe other churches do to the originals from the other churches do to the originals from which they have sprung.

There seems to be no permanent standard in this world. All things pertaining to society are subject to change. Change and inovation seem to be the law. New wants, in theology, as in other things are to be met. It is useless to attempt to atem the tide. It is rather the part of wisdom to detect the demands of the age and endeavor to lead them into a good channel than to attempt to retain them in such channels as fail to accure their interest and hearty co-operation.

The new church is mostly made up of the late congregation of the Rev. O. B. Frothingham. The present pastor is the Rev. M. Schemerhora, formerly pastor of the Church of the Unity, Boston, and afterward of the Channing Memorial church, at Newport, R. I. The keynote of the movement is found in the following extracts from Persian scriptures: "Have the religions of mankind no common ground? Is there not everywhere the same enrapturing beauty beaming forthe from many thousand hidden places? Broad. common ground? Is there not everywhere the same enrapturing beauty beaming forth from many thousand hidden places? Broad, indeed, is the carpet God has spread, and beautiful the colors He has given it. There is but one lamp in this house, in the rays of which, wherever I look, a bright assembly ments me. O God! whatever road I take joins the highway that leads to Thee."

At the first meeting of the society there

At the first meeting of the society there

At the first meeting of the society there were about 400 persons present, and each one was furnished with a little pamphlet entitled "Hymns of Theism" of the Third Unitarian (theistic) church"

The congregation were requested to rise and stand "devoutly" during the opening prayer and the closing blessing and through the singing, in which all were invited to join. The selections of hymns were from Watts, Tennyson, Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, and others. Among the fundamental principles of this new church are: God, humanity worship duty revealation, inspiration manity, worship, duty, revelation, inspiration, providence, &c.

The condition of membership is but one:

The condition of membership is but one:

"All who profess to be seeking for righteousness and for trath, and whose lives are in accord with their profession will, gladly be received into the membership of this church, with no other creed or condition imposed."

Let this new church have a fair chance to develop itself. In this wide world it will undoubtedly reach many minds heretofore unsatisfied. If it will do good unto the least of these, and be the means of making them happy, it would not seem that the older churches ought to take umbrage at it.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT

Fels & Co's Liquid Coffee

The Philadelphia Cuterer, an authority on things we eat and drink, says about Fels & Co's Liquid Coffee:

"There can be no doubt about it. It IS COFFEE - pure, honest, delicious, its fumes filled with that fragrance so peculiar to the freshly made beverage. The process of preparing it for the table is simple and quick."

The editor of Forney's Progress

"The Coffee has to be good. There is no bother about it. For the man in a hurry it is as easy to get as a glass of ice water. It is pure Coffee and retains its strength and aroma. Restaurants and those who use Fels & Co.'s Liquid Coffee never hear complaints. Everybody may be his own Coffee-

Easy and Simple Directions for Making Fels & Co.'s Liquid Coffee.

Pour boiling water on two teaspoonfuls of the liquid in a cup (with milk and sugar as usual), and drink.

Always ready, always uniform. No trouble, no hurry. Ready in an instant. No grounds in the cup. Each bottle makes 35 cups of better Coffee than can be made in any other way at any price.

Your greeer has it. Away with prejudice, and give it a trial.

Corner Four-and-a-half street and Pennsylvania ave. WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER

OIL AND LIME. 0 0 Get the Gennine Article.—The great popularity of "Wildor's Compound of Cod-Liver Oil and Lime" has induced some unprincipled persons to attempt to paim off a simple article of their own manufacture. But any person who is suffering from Coughs, Colds, or Consumption, should be careful where they purchase this article. It requires no pulling. The results of its success are its best recommendations, and the proprietor has ample evidence on file of its great access in pulmanary campiants. The Phosphate of Lime possesses a mout marvelous healing power. As combined with the pure Cod-Live Oil by Dr. Wilbor it is prescribed by the medical facility. Sold by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston, and ill dringsless.
